

Masking a body(Tentative) - The way of care through defining the inside and the outside

The aim and motivation behind the essay are to take apart and explain the ways in which covering a body with clothing shows care for others and yourself, and furthermore to separate care into physical care and mental care which is often “masked” behind the practical function. Broadly I am attempting to analyze the way some garments affect our sense of personal space and what kind of psychological or emotional effect this has. And specifically, I want to deepen our understanding of how the peculiarities of particular garments, such as its material or specific design details, matter in this respect.

I feel I have finished the most important part of the essay and what I will do in these remaining days is finishing analysing some details (So far, about a mask and sunglasses are done, hoodie and headphone/walkman are left) and conclusion. I hope it's fine enough to complete the assignment.
